A MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

North Carolina's manufacturing industries are the backbone of our thriving economy. More new and expanding industries have announced plans to locate in North Carolina in recent years than in any other state in the country. North Carolina was ranked first in the nation in 1987 and again in 1988 for new manufacturing plant location announcements. Business Week's 1987 survey of top corporate officials ranked North Carolina as the country's best location for new plant sites.

Our hard-working people are the main reason North Carolina is the best place to locate a business. As the tenth most populous state, we are proud that no other state employs a larger percentage of its total workforce in manufacturing.

The state's manufacturing workforce is unique in both size and productivity. North Carolina has the largest manufacturing workforce in the Southeast -- more than 850,000 people -- and North Carolinians yield a production value of $.12 more per $1 earned in wages than the nation's other workers in the same industries.

There are other significant reasons why North Carolina is the number one choice of manufacturing industries across the nation:

- Free, customized skill training for new and expanding industries.
- Low per capita state and local tax rates.
- North Carolina has NO INVENTORY TAX.
- Low energy and construction costs.
- A central geographic location and a closer proximity to major markets.
- A comprehensive transportation network.
- An exceptional business climate and unsurpassed quality of life.

Most important, North Carolina's economy has a solid manufacturing base. The more than 6,600 industries listed in this directory, and the goods and services they provide, are key factors in our state's unprecedented growth and continued prosperity.

On behalf of North Carolina's 6.4 million citizens, I extend thanks to these manufacturing firms that keep our economy strong. To manufacturing firms outside our state, I extend an invitation to visit North Carolina and see why this is the "Better Business Climate."

Introduction

The 1989-90 Directory of Manufacturing Firms in North Carolina is published by the Department of Commerce as a service to the state's industrial establishments. It includes specific information on more than 6,600 industries throughout the state. The information is detailed in six comprehensive sections for easy reference.

- The Alpha Guide
  Arranged alphabetically, this guide indexes all firms listed in the directory with the page reference for listing in the Geographic Guide.

- The Geographic Guide
  Arranged by county, this section lists each firm's complete address; company headquarters and parent company, year established; employment range; names and titles of management personnel; import/export capabilities; and SIC (Standard Industrial Classification) product codes.

- The Company/Parent Company Index
  Arranged by company, this section provides a quick reference to parent company association.

- The Product Guide
  Arranged by four-digit SIC sequence, this section lists each firms address; employment range; and product description.

- The Purchase Guide
  Arranged by two-digit SIC sequence, this section lists each firm's address; employment range; and purchase description.

- The Export/Import Guides
  Arranged by two-digit SIC sequence, these guides list each firm's address; employment range; and products exported/imported (respectively).

The North Carolina Department of Commerce acknowledges with appreciation the cooperative efforts of North Carolina's manufacturers in submitting information for this directory. Information in the directory is obtained by surveying companies across the state. Considerable effort has been made to compile and verify a comprehensive list of North Carolina manufacturers. However, omissions and errors may occur inadvertently.

All manufacturers in North Carolina are entitled to a FREE listing in the directory. Manufacturers not currently listed may participate in the next edition by completing the form printed on the last page of this book.
